

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to a latent crosslinking thickener composition having a polymeric thickener which has been modified to contain a functionality capable of forming cross-links
5 at a latter point in time. The latent crosslinking thickener provides thickening properties as well as improvements to a film , coating or viscosity..